“ I can't begin to focus on one specific memory of Alex. I have so many special memories of Alex growing up. I have been blessed to know him his whole life. He and Troy were so very special to me and my family, and I reflect on our happier times together. Alex and Troy were blessed to have wonderful, loving parents who loved them very much. Their departure from Earth is so untimely, and I am saddened by the loss of the memories we were yet to make. Ron and Kathy, I love you both so much. Please know you will always be Troy and Alex's parents, and you did a wonderful job loving them and taking care of them, and will see them again one day. We are all God's children and we all know our children are "on loan" from God here on Earth. I just wish you could have had them longer. They are greatly missed!!###imported-begin###Robin Anderton###imported-end###

“ Alex,
I'm sad that you're gone, heartbroken, but I know you're finally getting to catch up with Troy.
If there can be any good out of this, it's that you and Troy are sitting around shootin' the breeze with each other. I can't wait to see you guys. In the mean time, I'll be missing you.
I love you just as much as you know,

“ It's hard to equate the little tow-headed boy that sang in the kid's choir, played a mean baseball game and had a smile that would light the room with the troubled young man that died on Thursday. Drug use and grief had erased almost all signs of that little boy but he was still loved....by his parents, by his friends, by his family and by me. I will miss what he could have become and always hurt for the pain he must have carried all those years. Goodbye Alex.##imported-begin##Aunt Sheila##imported-end##
