“ Barry, I don't know why Brian's obit popped up on my face page just now but guess it's God's way of letting me know he and Steve are looking down on us. God bless his sweet memory and both of U were among the sweetest of our EVP kiddos. I surely do hate to know this sad news. Hugs to U, Martha Lacey Matthews

“ I have a memory of Brian to share. When I was young, not sure how old I may have been... but it was around the time when Nanny and Pop still lived in the little house “down the hill”. I just have a vivid memory of Brian making something disappear. I say “something” meaning it could have been a marble, or gum-ball, but I think it was a chocolate candy of some sort. (Ok, so maybe not THAT vivid). It was likely one those cheap round milk-chocolate balls wrapped in foil that you find at Christmas time. But anyway, Brian rolled that something into his forearm and it disappeared! I was mind blown. Like any good magician he never told me how he pulled it off, but let's just say it was magic. Must've been, seeing how I never forgot it. I also remember how cool I thought he was. I wish you and the family peace and comfort during this difficult time.

Love,

I grew up with Brian, we lived in the same neighborhood. I remember meeting Brian in the 3rd grade, we were friends thereafter. He got me involved in playing the guitar in the 7th grade and later got me a job programming the computer for the Swimming Pool Company he worked for as I was going through UAB after High School We did grow apart over the years but I have always considered him one of my closest friends. Having moved to Houston I've lost touch and only now learning of his passing. This news has me devastated. I always thought we would be able to connect 'someday'.

Sending my Love to his family .

Love
