“ What I will always remember about him is the joy that was written all over his face when he smiled. I only spent time with him maybe 4 or 5 different times. Through the good and bad he would always smile, and when he did there was always something about the joy on his face that gave me a peace in my heart. Peace that the Lord was with him and would take care of him. He was so strong through the last tough parts of his life. He had an amazing heart full of stories that I was able to hear before he passed; stories I will never forget. But most of all, I will never forget his genuine care and interest in me even though he didn't know me that well. It will forever be an honor that I was able to spend the last few weeks he had on earth getting to know him a little better each time. Thank you to Matt and Mr Mark for allowing me the opportunity. Glory to God for peace and rest for his soul.
