“ I am so sorry for your loss of Ms. Price. Please accept my condolences.
When our enemy 'death' strikes, it brings great pain and sorrow. I hope you find comfort in Psalm 55:22 which says God will sustain us if we throw our burdens on him.
We also have the hope of the resurrection (John 5:28,29). We can look forward to seeing our dead loved ones again,
I hope these scriptural thoughts bring you some comfort.

“ One of my favorite people, “Aunt Betty” as I called her, just crossed over into Jesus welcoming arms – our greatest emotion is missing her abiding presence. I’ve always appreciate both her witness and prayers for our family over many decades; her daily practice of advocating prayer, especially, has served as model for my own prayer life to hold up both our family and those God brought into our lives.

Her smile was one of the first and last memories I have of her – a radiance of Christ presence in her that always brought the Kingdom of God to earth, a taste of heaven. A loving and devoted mother and wife in her early years which expanded in recent times to include grandchildren, great-grandchildren and even one great-grandchild – the blessing of Ps. 127 proved true. Her foundation was in and on Jesus as Lord from her commitment to Him some 75 years ago – and now finally, realizes with full measure, the Lord that she served in faith, now, finally, in sight.

Aunt Betty, you finished well, good and faithful servant of your Lord and Savior. We will miss you but celebrate your life, well-lived.
