“ The hole in my heart is not measurable. Joe was such a close and constant presence in my life. He looked after his little sister... always. He was faithful. Period. In all things. We talked about baseball at night when our Red Soxs and Yankee rivals were playing each other. He loved the Braves. He loved first base. He love baby steps. He loved being an overcomer. He loved life. I don't know who the master gardner is in heaven but he/she may have received a pink slip Thursday morning. Until I see him again, I will always miss him.
