“ My best memories of Granny are from when I lived with her in the apartments on Pike Rd. that Mr. and Mrs. Langford owned. She would let me cook whatever I wanted, whenever I wanted. Even in the middle of the night! Grilling steaks on the hibachi grill on that little screened front porch. Cooking omelets in the wee hours of the morning on that old school enamel gas stove (and you can't forget that really old-school enamel fridge. The one with the rounded corners like it was pot-bellied). My whole chef thing, it really started there in her little apartment.
