Like every family we had tough times. Some emergency room visits because someone ran with scissors in their hand and someone climbed on a piece of farming equipment. There were lots of fun times too. Like the time someone was bucked off a pony because mom tried to get the pony to move. And the time someone was tricked into eating a big scoop of mayonnaise, thinking it was the last bite of ice cream. And there was the time we were picking strawberries—mom was on one side of the wide rows and the person on the other side was picking and moved a small stick out of the way causing mom to think there was a snake in the strawberries—it was a funny sight!

Some of the best memories were in the kitchen. We all gathered around the table for meals. Mom always cooked a big breakfast and dinner and she was a great cook. She made the best biscuits ever! She loved flowers and making flower beds. She will be missed.
